

Corporate Responsibility in Australia and New Zealand

Novartis Pharmaceuticals provides support for patient groups, research efforts and communities in need. We work to promote the well-being of our associates, and support communities through volunteerism and philanthropic activities and our generics division, Sandoz, helps make affordable, high quality medicines available to more people.

Each year Novartis gets involved with various fundraising events focusing on raising awareness of medical conditions and giving back to the community.

The Novartis global Malaria Initiative is one of the industry's largest access-to-medicines programs, providing 500 million treatments without profit to more than 60 malaria endemic countries, including Papua New Guinea and the Solomon Islands.
